The annual WONM HUMANITARIAN MEDICINE conference is an intense didactic education in traditional natural medicine health care delivery and prepares doctors, practitioners, other health professionals and supporters of humanitarian services with the knowledge and skills necessary to be effective health care providers at home as well as to serve successfully in humanitarian mission in developing countries.

Conference topics include:

- Cost effective healthcare service delivery through a recession.
- Establishing addiction prevention clinics.
- The impact of addiction globally.
- How to be proactive as a health care professional.
- WONM International activities.
- Health leadership skills.

These conferences are accredited for continuing education (CEU). They also provide attendees with opportunities to network with local and international health organizations. Your attendance is crucial for the success of this congress. Proceeds from the congress will help fund WONM clinics for humanity.

CLINICS FOR HUMANITY™

The mission of WONM is to fulfill the duty entrusted to it by its founders, which is, the delivery of primary health care and natural medicine to the world's economically deprived peoples. The human cost of conflict is immense, and the physical and psychological wounds they inflict on the population are enormous. The latter heal very slowly. This reinforces the necessity of developing a worldwide group, geared towards education, natural medicine, healthcare delivery and peace. Hopefully, this will awaken within societies the values, attitudes and bonds of common interest necessary to transcend the differences arising from conflicts and inequities.

Governments are restricted in providing cost-effective primary traditional health care to the poor, due to their reliance on manufactured drugs. Most doctors are at a loss without expensive hospital technology, technicians, and prescription drugs. Their lack of knowledge with respect to traditional, eclectic, and natural medicine healthcare prevents them from using an inexpensive, effective and reliable source of healthcare delivery especially for the poor.

Under the Clinics for Humanity™ program, WONM's Doctors and Practitioners of Humanitarian Medicine administer free traditional and natural medicine healthcare geared towards the poor whenever it is needed. WONM Clinics for Humanity projects are endorsed by the Sovereign Order of Knights Hospitaller (OSJ) Knights and Dames group Canada.
